

Change management: Who should be involved in the planning and implementation phase?

George Crooks

The presentation will challenge the current status quo and argue the need for change. It will focus on the individual as the driver for change but also as the key enabler in delivering safe effective and sustainable health and care services.